

OWEN WILTON STEPS UP TO JOIN BOARD OF DIRECTORS AT PARK LANE

Residential and commercial property, investments and strategic land company, Park Lane, has appointed land expert, Owen Wilton, as its new land director. Owen, who has been promoted from development manager, will join the board this month.

As land director Owen, who has been with the Glasgow-based company for two years, will be instrumental in expanding Park Lane's activities further into the strategic land and commercial development sectors.

Commenting on his appointment, Owen Wilton said: "I am delighted to join the experienced board of directors at Park Lane. We have a very solid range of projects to take forward and the current market offers great opportunities for experienced companies such as ours who know and understand the marketplace".

Owen has over 25 years experience in both the public and private property sectors and was more recently project coordinator with Renfrewshire Council at Renfrew Riverside. He has also held senior posts in various local authorities within their Planning and Economic Development Departments.

Park Lane's joint managing director Sean Robinson added: "We are very pleased to welcome Owen to our board of directors. He has a range of skills that compliment the existing team and his extensive experience in strategic planning and economic development is a great asset to Park Lane."

Owen joins the Park Lane board of directors, comprising Sean Robinson (joint managing director), Brian Clarke BSc MRICS (joint managing director), Shonah Urquhart BSc MRICS (development director), John Murray BSc MRICS (technical director) and Gavin Robinson BA ACMA (finance director).

Owen's broad experience in strategic land and commercial development sectors includes successfully promoting the economic case for M74 motorway completion, managing strategic infrastructure projects throughout the Central belt, and senior roles with large public/private regeneration initiatives. Since joining Park Lane in 2006, Owen's work has included major strategic land projects in west Edinburgh and Hamilton.

Since its inception in 1993, Park Lane has transformed itself from a small developer and investor into a substantial player in the Scottish market place, with a clear record of delivery on major regeneration projects including Merchant City and inner city residential developments such as Glasgow Harbour, Renfrew Riverside and Yoker Riverfront.
